Local and General

Remember McRory's One Price Sale is a weekly feature.

McKay Bros. have purchased the old Fossens Bros. farm from Mr. Tanco.

Geo. O. Davis has purchased a section of land at Crossfield from Mr. Tanco.

A large number from Crossfield have taken in the Calgary fair this week.

It only takes 15c to buy a square worth at McRory's Saturday or Monday.

Geo. Boyce and wife of Millet, Alberta, were guests of friends in Crossfield over the week end.

We are informed that the prize money of the Agricultural Society is now ready for distribution, in fact many have already received cheques for the prizes.

If the lady who won the Chronicle's Special Prize will call at this office and leave copy for the better wrapper we will be pleased to execute the work as soon as possible after the call.

The Carstairs Methodist Sunday School will hold their third annual Excursion to Banff on Friday July 19th. Train will start from Olds and take in all intermediate stations including Calgary. Further particulars next week.

Nevins, L. McRory and Ross Pringle spent Sunday and Monday in Banff, and report having succeeded in climbing Sulphur Mountain which is seven miles from the base to the summit.

A tornado which struck the business section of the city of Regina on Sunday afternoon last, killed 31 people outright and injured another hundred many of whom will likely die. The loss of property will be something over $8,000,000.

It has been noticed that some of the cows in town are being allowed to run at large in the village again, and it will be well for the village constable to round up a few which may serve as an object lesson to the rest of the cow owners. Just because the cows have not been molested at night in the past few months is no reason why cow owners should allow their bovine to wander wherever they like.

Wm. Urquhart recently sold a steer which brought the record price for beef in the Crossfield District and perhaps in the Province. One steer brought him the tidy sum of $125.00 and a bunch averaged $90 per head. Small wonder meat is high.

Crop prospects in this district were never better than they are at present, not only for a bumper crop but also for a very early harvest. The heavy rains of the past week have been of great benefit, and while the crops were not in actual need of moisture, still the rains have helped to advance them to a large extent.

This year the Calgary exhibition has the services of a real birdman in the person of Jimmy Ward, a well known aviator, who is making two flights each day. There is no humbug about this gentleman for when he says he will go up, up he goes, and his flights while not spectacular are long and straight. The price of admission to the grounds is well worth seeing this feat alone.

THE SAMPLE MARKET

How it Will Increase the Car Shortage

From time to time the grain growers of Western Canada are faced with problems affecting the disposal of the products of their labor; questions that require the most careful consideration. To come to a satisfactory conclusion on these vexing problems demands a thorough investigation of all the possible results which would arise from the adoption of the proposals made. To often the actual results of the operation would be proposed schemes are obscured by parties interested in securing pecuniary advantages.

Such a scheme is the one now before the Western grain growers, in which an effort is being made to establish a sample market for the handling of grain. The imaginary benefits of such a market are extolled while the injuries that would result from it are utterly ignored. Chief among the faults that may be found with the proposed scheme is the greater length of time which would be consumed in conveying the grains from the point of shipment to the lake front.

Every farmer knows the value of the rapid transit of grain from the farm to the market. The present cry from one end of the country to the other is that the railways are too slow in moving the crop. There are too few cars and insufficient motive power. And yet the establishment of a sample market would further lengthen the time of transit and lessen the abilities of the railways to handle the crop.

Next fall, one of the railways will be hauling into Winnipeg at least 500 carloads of grain every day. Should a sample market be established the grain would be sold by separate loads on sample, and ordered out on time. The whole railway yard cannot be switched to pick out a particular car as each order is received, so that there will have to be a rule to start switching every night after five o'clock. This means, therefore, that a car of grain reaching Winnipeg after eleven o'clock on Saturday morning would not start to be switched until after five o'clock on Monday morning, as the grain would not be disposed of at the grain exchange before Monday.

Cars that reached Winnipeg before eleven o'clock Saturday morning and were switched Saturday evening would be shipped on Sunday. But Monday there would be no grain coming out of Winnipeg. That means that practically no grain would be shipped out of Winnipeg for twenty-four hours each week. The same thing would occur on Thanksgiving Day and the other holidays.

Making the very best allowance it means that one day in every seven would be lost and as there are only seventy-seven days in which the crop would be shipped, it means that the ability of the railways to move the crop would be lessened by twelve days out of seventy-seven, or roughly speaking, the transportation facilities on the railways of the Northwest would be cut down by at least sixteen per cent.

Then, taking into consideration the fact that would take place at the lake front through the rush of grain there in the first part of the week owing to the hold up at Winnipeg over Sunday, it is not an exaggeration to say that the power of the railways to move the crop would be reduced by twenty-five per cent.

The agitators for a sample market are saying that the railways could add to their rolling stock and yard facilities. But every man who exercises common sense knows that notwithstanding their heavy expenditures and every effort they were able to make the railways have been barely able to keep up with the large increases in the crops produced in the West. It is apparent, therefore, that if the railways are hampered in their movement of the crop to the extent of twenty or twenty-five per cent, that the grain blockade will be worse than ever before.

The western farmer is well aware that a grain blockade always works to the detriment of those who raise the grain and to the advantage of those who buy grain and hold it in their elevators. The results of the grain blockade last fall are still felt in the West. Let the farmers consider the results of a blockade this year and they will surely see the last one before they consent to the establishment of a sample market and its attendant evils.

Cleanse the System

His First Move
It was a shy young man who was once asked to take a class of girls about 15 or 16, which had formerly been taken by a woman. The young clergyman, consented, says London Tit-Bits, but insisted upon being properly introduced to the class. The superintendent, according to him, took him to the class for this purpose and said:
Young ladies, I introduce to you Mr. Chira, who will in future be your teacher. I would like you to tell him what your former teacher did so that he can go on in the same way.
A miss of 16 rose and said:
The first thing teacher did was to kiss us all around.

A Snappy Age
The young man breezed into the old man's library.
I met your daughter, he announced.
Worm Extirpator. It has saved to marry her next Friday afternoon at 3.30. She's willing.
The old man turned to his card index.
Which daughter? he asked.
Miss Ethel.
All right, said the old man. Make it 4.30 and I'll attend the wedding. It was an engagement at the other hour.
It was no ordered. This is a snappy age.—Pittsburgh Post.

Tom—You don't mean to tell me that some of it is false.

AN EXCELLENT REMEDY FOR LITTLE ONES

Mrs. John C. Lepage, Rimouski, Que., writes: "Your Baby's Own Tablets are an excellent remedy for little ones and I always keep them in the house." Thousands of other mothers say the same thing. The Tablets always do good—they cannot possibly do harm. They are the only medicine for children sold under the absolute guarantee of a government analyst to contain no opiates or harmful drugs. They sweeten the stomach, regulate bowels, cure indigestion and promote healthful sleep. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

I understand your husband is a candidate for office, said a suffragette out west to her sister in the cause. Are you going to support him?

Fisherman's Luck
Up near Fisherton, a Toronto traveling man who was making a trip overland passed an old man who was fishing with hook and line in a small stream. As the drummer drove by in a buggy the old man never took his eyes off the bobber in the water. When the traveling man returned late in the afternoon he was greatly surprised to see the old man still in the same position, with his eyes glued on the bobber.

Hello, uncle! he shouted. Any luck today?
Without taking his gaze off the cork which rested on the surface of the placid stream, the old man replied.
Had a nibble 'long about noon.—Mail and Empire.

Frost & Wood
No. 3 Binder
does Better Work

Because of the Eccentric
 Spoked Wheel the No. 3 Binder makes a tighter, more tightly compressed bundle and saves considerable time. Discharges the bundle faster, less than the ordinary binder. Moreover, no other binder has the Eccentric Spoked Wheel. Neither is any other binder so light in draft. At all points where there is a possibility of friction occurring the makers of No. 3 Binder have provided Large Roller Bearings.
 That's why the Frost & Wood
 No. 3 runs so smoothly and easily—one reason why it gives so many more years of service.
 Another reason for its great durability is the strong, powerful construction of its back which we would like to explain to you fully. Drop in at your nearest convenience and talk things over with us. We are confident that the Frost & Wood No.
 3 is the binder for you. Give us a chance to prove it.

Frost & Wood
No. 8 Mower

Cut your crop of grass with the Frost & Wood No. 8 Mower this season. Because it is built on the Internal Gear principle, No. 8 will do the work faster and more satisfactorily than an ordinary mower.

TIGER RAKE

Use the Tiger Rake for raking your hay. The teeth are curved exactly right to pick up everything the mower cuts. You can dump it by foot or

 Frost & Wood Haying machines. Call on us right away.

Well Drilling Machinery

HOW TO RENOVATE PARASOLS.

Dainty Touches That Simple Needlework Will Effect.

If your last summer parasols are too dilapidated to use get them out and study their possibilities. Some may require a complete re-dyeing, but may be cleaned and freshened by embroidery or a covering of net or chiffon; others may need new tops. The latter can be added at home by a skilled needlewoman, but if distrustful of one's ability, do the embroidery first and take the frame and covering to a professional to be mounted.

Remember that the distance between spokes may vary, so in removing the cover mark a certain spoke with a thread and number the sections from that. In this way it will be easy to get the new cover in its right position. Cut each section from the old one, allowing a trifle more for seams if the edges have been cut. Bandage the fit to the frame, then sew the seams firmly, and the cover is ready for its embroidery or further decoration.

This may be done before mounting or after the cover is firmly tacked to the frame. When a parasol is new, each section can be worked before the panels are basted together. For basting it is easier to mount the cover than work with both hands, as on a standard frame.

A plain white linen parasol may be given a decided air by working in the panels sprays of flowers in eyeliner green, and for the seams, or entirely in old embroidery. An effective parasol of white pongee has been decorated with a conventional design work in self tones. A violet linen cover could have a deep purple or blue and vine of clematis worked in purple shades.

A parasol of pale gray linen was given a fine inch border of deep rose on the outside of the top half. The joining was concealed by a line of wild roses worked in several tones of gray with pale yellow centers and green stems.

Any linen or silk parasol could be changed by adding a similar border in a deeper tone of its own shade or in a contrasting color. Harmonize the two sections by a conventional design worked in self tones. A violet linen cover could have a deep purple or blue and vine of clematis worked in purple shades.

LINENIER PROOF WITH SILK COALS.

The flange frocks of high degree have adorable little taffeta coats, which make them very dressy for afternoon occasions.

The model illustrated of ventile lace and cream net has a coat of green shot taffeta trimmed with white bell buttons, and the upper bodice of net has long sleeves of green taffeta.

THE NO GLOVE MOVEMENT.

Rings With Large Settings Resemble For Change.

There is an old saying that a French woman does her gloves in the privacy of her boudoir, an Englishwoman while coming down the stairs, and the American tugs on her gloves when halfway down the street. And if this is so, it would appear as though for once the Parisians are imitating their American contemporaries.

The no glove fashion in particular, noticeable in Paris, where many smart women are carrying their gloves in their hands instead of putting them on. The gloves they carry are exceedingly fine suede ones in beautiful tints of blue, ecru and tan.

For some little time past women have been flouting the old invariable law that the hands should be covered in the evening, and at the theaters and the less ceremonious parties the wearing of gloves has been on the decrease.

There is also a new liking for duck's foot yellow gloves, which were popular some years ago were exceedingly modish. These are worn for morning walks.

The reason assigned for the no glove movement is the fact that rings with very large gem settings are fashionable, and muffs are exceedingly popular. It is customary to take to the theater a large muff, in which the hands are buried. But the gloves must be there, too, loosely carried in the hands after the manner specified by men.

Crepe de Chine Underwear.

Each year the return of summer brings us something new in the way of undergarments. This year's innovation is to be crepe de chine, and there is no doubt that it will be exceedingly cool and comfortable. We will find all our old favorites developed in this material, combinations, princess slips and nightgowns, and they will all be stored. First is the favorite color, though garments are found in all the delicate shades, while the more elaborate of satin, and likewise the more expensive are decorated with flowers, nozzles and wreaths made of chiffon and ribbon.

The more simple and practical garb are lace trimmed, and they are the favorite, as it is on the fine under-muslin, though finer edging and ribbon are used.

One Way Out.

A leading advocate of bigger pensions worked for nearly a year getting a pension for an old woman. Her husband, an old soldier, had been away from home for years. Nobody had actually seen him die, but the evidence was indicated that he was dead, and the pension was granted. Just about the time the woman got her first payment the friend received a letter from her, saying:

"My husband has just returned home. What shall I do?"

The letter was returned with these words scrawled on the bottom:

"Kill him!"—Fryer's Magazine.

BURBAGE, THE ACTOR.

He Was the First to Appear in Shakespeare's Leading Roles.

The first actor to personate Shakespeare's leading characters was Richard Burbage, who was probably born in the same year with Shakespeare, and whose name stands next to that of Shakespeare in his handwriting of acting granted to the company at the Globe theater, in London, by James I. in 1603 Burbage was performing at the Globe theater on the night of June 28, 1616, when that edifice was burned. This was shortly after Shakespeare had given up the stage and retired upon a competency to his native town of Stratford. It is said that because of this disaster not one line of a drama by Shakespeare in his handwriting is in the handwriting of that period, has been preserved.

Burbage died March 16, 1618, two years after Shakespeare, and his death was the occasion for much more eulogical effusion than had followed the death of his great but modest friend. The poets, who had been under heavy obligations to the actor, felt his loss severely and gave him what post mortem payment they could. It is said that Burbage was also a successful painter in oil. Oh, that he had given the immortal bard a sitting or two before his easel, but doubtless he painted for money, and it may be that Shakespeare was not a desirable patron of art.

Burbage, like Shakespeare, was not wealthy, and at his death left a net estate that produced £300 a year, equivalent to about six times that amount today or almost $10,000 a year.

Exchange.

With a President.

"Mrs. Brown, I'm sorry to have to tell you that your little daughter threw a stone through our front window this morning."

"Is that so? This is too bad."

"Too bad? I think she ought to be punished."

"Punished? Dear me, I couldn't do that. The dear little thing was only getting 'autraguet'."—Detroit Free Press.

Be Sings.

If stung by a bee rub off the sting instead of pulling it out with the nails of the thumb and forefinger; thus forcing more venom into the wound.

Ammonia applied to the wound made by a bee sting will usually afford immediate relief.

Gravitation.

No scientist is able to prove absolutely that gravitation is an attraction or a pressure. The evidence inclines toward the theory that it is an attraction.

Wayide Caskary.

Happy childhood that has not yet learned to be afraid of germs or appearances! No doubt Ned and Stephen could not guess why their parents were punished.

"I've just spatked Ned. I don't know what course you'll pursue with Stephen," remarked Mrs. Williams' intimate friends.

"What have the boys been up to now?" she apprehensively asked.

"About the very last thing you'd imagine. They've been eating lunch on with the Italian laborers working along the car track. And you might as well know the worst at once—they've been eating meat cooked in a shovel."

With the frantic vision of a hopelessly germ ridden child, Mrs. Williams called her son to immediate account.

"I didn't eat luncheon with any strange men!" he indignantly protested.

"That's all right," said his mother, "but I didn't eat any meat cooked in a shovel, either."

"What did you eat then?"

"Only a bit of gray cooked in a shovel by one of the men." Then seeing the alarm in his mother's face, "But it was clean, all right, mother, for I saw the man who did the shovel with his hat before he poured in the gravy."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

CHAMPION KISSERS.

Two Hungerford Men Salute All the Ladies in Their City.

Just when England is beginning to pride itself on its progress of modernity, Hungerford, on the borders of Berkshire in the White, slips back into the centuries because it is Hockney Tuesday.

Unless you have lived through Hockney Tuesday you can have no conception of what it means. It needs strong nerves and a stronger constitution thoroughly to enter into the spirit of ancient times.

At eight o'clock the town crier, in grey and scarlet, with brass buttons, comes out of the town hall and blows three notes on the ancient horn given by John of Gaunt, and that is the signal for two multi-men to emerge from the constable's house with staves tipped with flowers—daffodils, primroses, and tulips, surmounted by an orange.

It is their business to go forth and kiss the damsels of the town, irrespective of age or beauty, according to custom.

Mr. James Blake and Mr. Anthony Hocken Tuesday. Mr. Blake is sixty years old. Mr. Hocken is younger. They are vigorous, and at eight o'clock until seven in the evening, with a break for dinner, they go about the town, that they shall be liberal with oranges and pennies. Therefore, having kissed a maid, they go on to a soldier, and so on, until they have kissed all the old ladies, including Ann Benson, who is ninety-nine years old. They then go to the laundry, with their floral staves. Up from house to house, kissing, kissing, until, at the time the crier himself there were no more left to kiss.

They wanted to start again, but that is against the laws.

Meanwhile, during these goings-on, the Hock-Tide Court had been sitting, doing the serious business of the town, appointing a constable, a portreeve, an ale-taster, and what not, and at the same time the crier had journeyed to the Three Stars for churchward pipes and bowls of smoking punch.

Everyone agreed that "they were good old times."

A Deathbed Marriage.

It is recorded that the tenth Lord Strathmore married on July 2, 1820, the daughter of J. Milner, of Saint Paul, Durham, but died the day after the wedding. A romantic story is associated with the statement.

Mary Milner was a beautiful girl of humble birth. The earl went through a false case of marriage with her, but she lived with him as his wife in all innocence, their only son being sent to Eton as Lord Glamis. On his deathbed the earl confessed that he had acted dishonorably, but said he would never marry her.

The injured woman had no more secret wedding; and, ill as she was, she was carried to church and her marriage took place before all who could be summoned to attend the ceremony. Lord Strathmore passed away next day, and though he could not legitimize his son, the ceremony was much respected.

Man, Mr. John Bowers, who died a few years ago, he made the mother of Strathmore.

Subsequently Lady Strathmore married her son's tutor, Mr. William Hutt, who became, through her wealth and influence, member for Gateshead, and eventually a K.C.B.

Useful Things to Know.

Starch should be mixed with soap water, for thus the linen will have a more glossy appearance and be less likely to stick to the iron.

Molasses grease spots with cold water and soda before scrubbing, as this will cause them to be more easily removed.

Good black ink mixed with the white of an egg is excellent to restore the color to black ink gloves or shoes.

Any kind of a boiled starch will be tastier if it is baked ten or fifteen minutes immediately on being taken from the steamer and before being removed from the mold.

If new cake tins are put on top of the stove until they have a bluish color, but not until they become hot, the cake will not stick to them during the baking as it usually does to new tins.

Homemade Linoleum.

Take an old carpet that is whole, but too shabby for use, and tack it down smoothly on the kitchen floor.

Mix a good thick paste of starch of flour and water add rub a coat of oil on the carpet with a whitewash brush.

In about twenty-four hours of when the starch is dry give a coat of paint any color suitable. Park red is a serviceable color and wears well.

The "Naggie."

In London a gill is often termed a "quartern." In the north of England half a pint is called a gill and the true gill a "goggie."

HE WAS A BIG MAN.

E.Lite: Pays Eloquent Tribute to the Late Judge Mabey.

The first and dominant impression made by Judge Mabey, as presiding officer and directing genius of the Railway Arbitration Commission, was that of a man of magnificent physique, with a keen intellect and a faculty for epigrammatic expression that was master of his court, and of every question and situation which came before it. Patiently and considerately with the untiring lawyer or the litigant without counsel, he was meretricious in tearing to pieces any sophistical argument presented to him by counsel learned in the law. Lacking something perhaps of the patient industry and talent for analysis which distinguished his predecessor, the late Judge Killam, he brought to the work of the commission much of the spirit which animated the latter during his brief service and supplemented this with a boldness and originality peculiarly his own. He thoroughly grasped the underlying principle of the railway act, namely, the establishment of a sympathetic tribunal to adjudicate the grievances that factious rivalries of the municipalities against the great public utility corporations.

While Judge Mabey sat on the bench, brushed aside technicalities and stood in little awe of precedents, he was laboriously and conscientiously gathering many of his written opinions will long remain as monuments to his office, as a solid basis of the law, however, was his immediate instinctive sense of right and justice. He was not prone to become so fastidious as the failure of Parliament to establish the principles and principles for the guidance of the commission, but he was compelled to follow the precedents of the railway of this cost of the railways of the United States Interstate Commerce Commission, and the body of the national legislation. On the other hand, in certain cases, notably in the west, those prevailing in the east of Canada.

He sat in the commission at the hearings in Toronto on April 29. He presided with his usual force and ability, holding counsel well in hand and expediting the business before him. One matter which came up was an application from a citizen in Leacock Hill, who had several complaints to make about the railway company. This man said an official, "This was about twenty letters making all sorts of complaints."

"Well," said the chairman smilingly, "he is evidently a chairman and he is entitled to write all the letters he wants to."

It was hard to replace Judge Mabey. When Judge Killam died many felt that the Government had a hard case before it in finding his successor, but the Laurier Government measured up to the task superbly well.

There will be no division of sentiment throughout the country. He was a big man, and public-spirited. He adorned the bench and shed lustre upon the Railway Commission.

Experienced.

A man applied to a local firm which made a good thing out of it.

"Need any more talent?"

"Are you an actor?"

"Am I?"

"Had any experience at acting with audiences?"

"Plenty of it. Lack of audiences is what brought me here."—Kansas City Journal.

Radio.

Radio emits three streams of minute particles. These all carry definite charges of electricity, which make their discovery possible. No microscope could detect them, but they became apparent under proper conditions because of the electrical charge.

Red Snow.

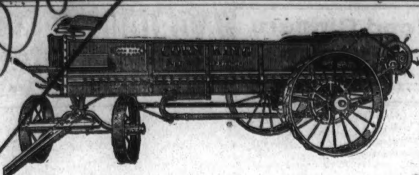

Red snow is often seen in spring at the base of Alpine glaciers. Scientists used to believe that the hue was due to the presence of innumerable tiny red diatoms, but it is now known to be caused by a microscopic plant which is pink when growing and a deep crimson when in a state of maturity.

Overstating.

Don't live to eat, but eat to live. Many a poor little rat is overeating to eat the wrong thing and to irritate his eating.

Stars in Hercules.

Even at this distance the astronomer can count 14,000 stars in the dense cluster of Hercules. The advent of our sun with its family of planets into that bunch of blazing furnaces would scarcely amount to a local disturbance.

HAY TOOLS YOU CAN DEPEND ON

Deering hay tools are doing good, reliable work, not only for users in this country, but also in foreign countries. They will do good work for you. Next time you are in town, come in and let us show you the Deering line of hay machines. We will be glad to explain how they will save you time and labor.

The Deering line of hay tools consists of mowers, sweep rakes, stackers and tedders. You will be interested in the new improvements of these machines. Perhaps you don't expect to buy, but as long as an investigation does not place you under any obligation to buy, isn't it to your advantage to come in and see us? You can't help but get some information which will be valuable to you. Come in and get a catalogue anyhow.
